POETRY CORNER

I came straight from Heaven to be sweetly born
In this year of our Lord on the sixth August morn
The Angels did curtesy, the Dawn danced with glee
While Grandma and Grandpa helped welcome me.

My blankie was woven with soft, angel hair
'Cause Grandma made sure I got the best care
I came with a halo most lavishly spun
Of golden strands Grandpa caught from the sun

I'll savor our moments, we'll make memories
For you did a great job with Daddy, you see
Forever I'll be your sweet 'Boy Blue'
And ever and always I will love you

You sparkle like tinsel on our family tree –
Lit up like Christmas – as bright as can be
Now, who could have asked for grandfolks so grand?
When it comes to my Grands, they're the BEST in the land!

Friday Morning Book Club

For those avid readers out there!

Here is your chance to share your thoughts, opinions and suggestions on your favorite novels. Join those that share a common interest, a love for reading. The group is meant to be casual and encourages open discussions about books you may be reading or have read in the past.

There are no expectations and there is no need to have to read during the group. Come share your literary experiences, listen to an audio version or bring a book to pass along to your peers or donate to the group. Meets every Friday around 10:00 a.m. in the Multi Purpose Room.
